Notes to Financial Statements of Jean Group (Continued)

, remaining time of fixed interest rate accrual, remaining time of principal payment and currency for payment are stipulated in the contract.

(3) Most of guarantee deposits paid and received are paid and received in cash; therefore, the fair value should be equal to the book value.

2. Financial risk information

(1) Market risks

The Company's value fluctuation risks that will be incurred to foreign currency deposits, accounts receivable, accounts payable and short-term loans by foreign exchange rate movements.

For the derivative financial instruments trades carried out by the Company, as such products are measured by fair value, they are subject to influences of market price fluctuation.

(2) Credit risks

The Company's major potential credit risks are from the financial commodities of notes receivable and accounts receivable. In order to reduce credit risks, the Company carries out sustained evaluation on customers' financial position and adjusts line of credit offered to them as appropriate. In addition, the Company also regularly evaluates the possibility of recovering accounts receivable and makes provision for impairment losses.

(3) Liquidity risks, cash flow risks, and uncertainty of future cash demands

The Company kept appropriate working capital and bank credit not tapped to cope with situations both in 2011 and 2010, so as to avoid the liquidity risk of not being able to raise funds to fulfill contractual obligations.

(4) Cash flow risks of interest rate changes

The Company's short-term loans are floating-rate debts. Therefore, the changes of market interest rate will make the short-term loans fluctuate along with the changes, leading to the fluctuation of future cash flow.
